

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

BAG AND METHOD OF MOVING

A bag including a housing having a storage area and a surface. The bag includes an extendable handle connected to the housing. The bag includes an auxiliary wheel unit having at least one castor connected to the surface which in an extended position extends from the surface at an angle of at least 15 degrees to form an extended support base for the housing, and in a retracted state folds against and is essentially in parallel with the surface. The bag includes a release mechanism having a cable which extends from the wheel unit for releasing the wheel unit from the surface to extend into the extended position. Methods for moving a bag. An alternative embodiment of a bag.